Buffalo, Oct. 26. Governor McKinley was whirled through the state of New York today at the rate of seventy miles an hour. In order to get him to all the places at which he was booked to make speeches a special train was made up, which flew over the tracks of the New York Central railroad as fast as steam could propel it. The first stop out of Buffalo was at Batavia, where Governor Mc-Kinley spoke from a platform erected in front of the court house. At Rochester there was a band and a procession and an audience of several thousand assembled in the public square. The demonstration at Rochester was very noisy, the cheers of the crowd being punctuated with explosions of bombs, and the route to the speaking stand was marked by an elaborate display of flags and bunting hung from the buildings. Canadaigua was reached at 10.20, where the arrival of the train was heralded by the discharge of cannon and ringing of the church belis. The governor took occasion at this piace to respond to a speech made by Vice President Stevenson. He

Mckinley Answers Adlai.

"Vice-President Stevenson, in his speech at Brooklyn last night, alluded to the great prosperity of the country enjoyed during President Cleveland's first administration, and said that existing distress was caused solely by the tariff law of 1899 and other Republican legislation. No intelligent people can be so deceived. Every man who hears me will remember that during the whole of President Cieveland's first term the Republican party had controbof the senate of the United States and that Mr. Cleveland did nothing more than execute Republican law and Republican purpose. The only thing Mr. Stevenson was right about was that great promises had been made by the Democratic platform and in the speeches of the campaign of 1892. He talks about the bitter fight congress made against monopolies and trusts. Mr. Wilson answers him by declaring that the most gigantic trust in our history held congress by the throat."

There was a howling mob of enthusiasts at Geneva. Here, referring to the student young man who interrupted him at Dunkirk, yesterday, Governor McKinley said: "The young man wanted our idle mechanics to go to raising wheat, but I take it that what the farmers of this country want is not more wheat raisers, but more wheat eaters." And he characterized the Democratic slogan of "opening the markets of the world" by observing. sarcastically, that "the foreign market is a great free trade shadow dance. When you get to it there is nothing in

An uproarious congregation was found at Seneca Falls, crackling the fallen leaves and making the barren limbs of the trees tremble with their shouts when the great protectionist dismounted from his car. There were certainly not less than 4,000 voters in Using a Lincolnesque phrase, McKinley said: "For the thirty years we lived under Republican protective policy, the meal tub of government was always full, and the meal tub of the people was never empty. This is the imperishable fact of history, which can never be blotted out." Later he expressed a protection maxim by saying "Every time you make it easier for the foreign product to come Into this market you make it harder for the American product to stay in this market."

The Republican party, in its infancy, with the aid of good men of all parties, was able to restore the Union. In its youth it was wise enough to give the country an unprecedented era of prosperity. In its manhood it will be able to restore that prosperity lost through misapprehension and misrepresentation. The Republican party is not a fleeting shadow. It is not a curiosity shop of old theories. It is the party of today and tomorrow. It is the party of the great war, It is the party of reconstruction. It is the party of sound currency and national honor.

As against this, the public has the original manuscript of the house jour-nal and the completed volume of the journal, which is the official record of the house and which both show that Burke was the fifth man out of thirty-three who voted on March 28, 1893, against the bill; they have also the testimony of Fred W. Fleitz, the journ-al clerk of the house and of the real clerk of the house, and of John R. Farr, the author of the bill, that Burke voted against it; and finally, they have the admission of M. T. Burke himself, in an interview printed in the Carbon-dale Herald of April 1, 1893, that he voted against the bill. Who is the liar?

No official estimate of what the Democrats expect to carry in the election has so far been given out at national head-quarters in Washington.

Senator Teller, at Pueblo, Col., said:
"I am a Republican. I have been a Republican all my life, and I expect to remain a Republican as I long as I live." It is the general opinion in Washington that the president's silence as to the New York fight is the poorest stroke of polit-ical diplomacy which he could commit.

All the preliminaries for the trading of audiences at Norristown between Hustings and Singerly have been arranged. Chairman Gilkeson has telegraphed the following to the Record: "I have told Mr. Solly to accept Mr. Singerly's proposition. General Hastings is not only willing, but anxious to do so."

Senator Gorman does not intend to help Senator Hill in the New York campaign. The Maryland senator has decided to say nothing on the stump this year. The senator declines to predict the outcome of the New York election, but in view of his declining to participate in the campaign it is pretty safe to say he has very small hopes of Mr. Hill's victory.

After Fifteen Hours of Hard Labor the Rescuers are Rewarded by Answering Sounds Within-The Deliverance to Be Affected in a Few Hours.

Ironwood, Mich. Oct. 26. What may prove to be the worst accident in the history of the Menominee Range occurred on the fourth level of Shaft No. 1 at the Powabic mine at 3 o'clock yesterday. One man is known to have been killed, and eleven others are entombed, and their fate will not be known for twelve hours. The accident was caused by the sandstone capping, which everhung the room, coming away with sufficient force to crush the timbers without any warning. The dead man is Frank Gaborora.

The entombed, so far as their names are obtainable, are John Farrel, Peter Hellberger, William Pickard and William Thomas. Last night Superintendent Brown expressed himself as being confident that all the entombed men would be taken out alive. This will depend very much on whether the air is pure and sufficient to keep them alive.

At 6 o'clock this evening the rescuers had dug to within eight feet of the men and some of them at least are still alive, as a distinct tapping can be heard on a pipe leading to where the men are entombed. Some of them will be alive, but the rescue can hardly be effected before daylight tomorrow.

To accomplish this, he brought charges under the Edmunds act against his wife and Arivesto Cruz, a worthy Mexican. Juan Poge, an ex-convict, formed the evidence in support of McCormick's allegations.

Cruz was committed and has been in jail since August. When his case came before the United States grand jury the evidence was so overwhelmingly great against McCormick that Cruz was set free and Poge and McCormick arrested for perjury. The evidence brought out that Cruz and the woman were not even acquainted.

FOUND A RING OF CORPSES

Gruesome Tale of Cannibalism from the North Seas.

AWFUL DISCOVERY BY SAILORS Party of Eskimos Without Food Resort to Cannibalism-The Last of the Lot

Evidently Died of Starvation After

Dundec, Oct. 26.

Having Enten Their Comrades. By the United Press,

Whaling vessels belonging to the Dundee fleet which have returned here bring a gruesome story from the far north. At the beginning of August the whalers Aurora, Balaena and Esquimaux were in Prince Regent's Inlet, searching for white whales. They steamed into Elvin Bay and a party from the Balaena landed and proceeded in shore. They had not gone far when they came upon a ghastly ring of corpses, the remains of Eskimos who had evidently died of starvation. The evidence pointed to its having been a case of survival of the fittest. Some of etta, 65c. quality, the bodies bore no trace of the tale told by the others. On the other hand, clean-picked human bones and partially devoured bodies revealed a story of cannibalism. One corpse had been beheaded, and the head was found thirty where someone had evidently made a meal upon the flesh and brain. It is supposed that the party, while travelling, found their progress checked by the sudden setting in of winter. What few provisions they had were soon exhausted, and then starvation stared them in the face. One by one they succumbed to the pangs of hunger and finally the stronger, in a futile attempt to save their own lives were driven to eat the others.
